

Lancaster County Product Book

Lancaster County has a rich history, and people with deep traditions that are woven into every aspect of life, especially food. It is a place where the traditional way of making delicious foods has not been forgotten and is still used today. There is an abundance of traditional and wholesome foods that are favorites of locals and visitors alike. There are old fashioned traditional PA Dutch foods such as shoofly pies, whoopie pies, pickled eggs, chicken pies and scrapple. Other favorites have been perfected such as, smoked meats, beef jerky, salads, fudge, and popcorn. Esh Foods is proud to be a distributor of the old fashioned favorites.

Esh Foods LLC is a company that had it's beginnings almost half a century ago. Samuel Esh knew that he needed a way to support his growing family. In 1963 he began a chicken farm. He built a five thousand unit chicken house where he began producing eggs and selling them retail.

Esh Eggs started growing and within ten years Samuel began marketing his eggs in a retail market in Delaware County. He began his business by doing everything he could to help his customers. This commitment to customer service is what helped the business grow, and at the peak of sales in the late nineteen seventies, Samuel and his wife sold eight-thousand eggs "across the counter" in two days. That is about seven dozen eggs a minute! This growth was a tribute to the dedication he had to his customers.

His son, Dave Esh has adopted Samuel's dedication to customers and in 1979, he took the reins of the wholesale side of the business. In order to meet the needs of his customers, he began to expand the business to sell products other than eggs. Soon he was selling over two thousand additional products.

In the year 2000, Esh Eggs stopped grading eggs and became the wholesale distributor that you are familiar with today.

Esh Foods sells products produced in Lancaster county to stores and Farmer's markets in the tristate region. Dave's daughter, Ann Michelle, and his son-in-law, Jason Stoltzfus, are the third generation of the family that are actively involved in the company .

The Esh Foods family give God the honor and glory for this great heritage. They have experienced the promise of Romans eight being displayed in their lives. We look forward to serving you and your business.

Arianna and Levi run a small hometown bakery in New Holland, Pa. At the age of 17 Arianna began baking out of her mother's kitchen. With the help of her parents, Arianna's Bakery was established in 1996. There were many long hours that went into filling those first orders. The Bakery began growing very quickly as the demand for the product increased and in 2009 a new building was built to accommodate their need. People come from far and wide to find out where the WONDERFUL PUMPKIN ROLL came from. The purpose of the Bakery has always been to produce a quality product with simple ingredients. Their goal is quality rather than quantity. Each product is hand made and individually packaged for your enjoyment.

Since 1926 Kaufmanns has been "putting on the squeeze" and reaping the delightful flavor and all-natural goodness of fresh sweet apple cider. Careful, consistent blending of sweet and tart apple varieties is their specialty. The apples are inspected and washed before being ground and squeezed with modern, sanitary equipment. The cider is screened and flash-pasteurized, making a delicious, nutritious, refreshing beverage. It is then bottled by their state-of-the-art, automated bottling system. In 2010 Kauffman's hard working cider production crew pressed about 130,000 bushels of apples, which produced over 431,000 gallons of cider.

Stoltzfus Meats

A generation ago most people bought their meat from a hometown butcher, but with the rise of the supermarket the butchers couldn't compete with the prices of mass produced meats. Stoltzfus Meats brings back that quality and care to each piece of meat that your hometown butcher supplied. Old fashioned pork scrapple, smoked hams, bacon, sausage grillers and ring bologna are only some of the offerings that Stoltzfus Meats prepares on-site.
